Leigh Attaway Wilcox is the author of All Better, a novelty-element book for young readers. As a former elementary teacher and reading specialist with a pre-school age child of her own, Wilcox has a deep appreciation for fun, inviting literature for kids.

Sharing her excitement about reading and writing with kids is simply a “perk” of being a published author. Residing in Frisco, Texas, Wilcox enjoys making school visits and serving as a guest reader for bookstores throughout the Dallas/Fort Worth area. Wilcox is also available for book signings and readings across the US.

Praise for All Better:

“I purchased this book for my 4 year old son and while he enjoys having us read it to him, he absolutely loves going back and creating his own stories about the animals and then making them ‘All Better.’ What a wonderfully simple book to help spark the imagination of a child. The Velcro bandages are a perfect size for a preschooler to handle independently, and the illustrations will draw any child instantly to this book.”
